FRUIT GROWERS
OPTIMISTIC ABOUT
YEAR'S APPLE CROP

Virginia's fruit growers continue to be optimistic about the 1958 apple crop prospects — despite a few troubles.

Dr. B. A. Rollins, Jr., of VPI's department of horticulture, says one of the most critical problems this year has concerned the control of the red-banded leaf roller. This insect apparently has become resistant to TDE in many orchards. Many growers have turned to phosdrin to control the leaf roller, but the chemical is extremely toxic and must be used with caution.

If third-blood leaf rollers need control measures, phosdrin may be used late in the season because of its relatively short residual life. TDE cannot be used to combat the third brood because of the danger of building up an excessive chlorinated hydrocarbon residue on the fruit at harvest.

By late July, Dr. Rollins said, mites had started to build up and cause considerable damage in some orchards. Some orchardists believe that mite damage in the season is of no real consequence, but Dr. Rollins warns that late-season foliage injury can have a bad effect on fruit size, color, and quality, and will also reduce the next season's crop. Also remember, Dr. Rollins warns, that stop-drop sprays must be applied to healthy leaves to be fully effective.

As growers apply late season sprays, they should check to insure that they are not applying chemicals too close to harvest. Information on the time limit to use materials before harvest is included in the chart on the back cover of the 1958 Virginia Spray Bulletin. Take special note of the fact that neither DDT nor TDE should be applied to fruit that is to be harvested in less than 30 days.

Fall harvest will soon be in full swing. During harvest, time is valuable, so be prepared for the rush. Reduce the number of emergencies that are likely to arise. Be sure you have enough ladders in good repair, enough boxes, and enough picking containers.

Quality of fruit now on Virginia trees is very good. In order to conserve this high quality, growers must first give special attention to the proper use of stop-drop sprays, Dr. Rollins says. If used as recommended they will serve as a valuable tool. However, if they are applied too early or at too high concentrations, they may hasten fruit maturity and reduce storage life.

Another factor in quality is harvesting at the proper time. It is not easy to determine when to pick a block of apples. To help growers with the problem of trying to determine the best time to harvest, a new circular has been prepared. Ask county agents or write the VPI Agricultural Extension Service, Blacksburg, for a copy of Circular 776, "When to Pick Virginia Apples."

TOPPING, SUCKERING IMPORTANT IN TOBACCO

It's always a good idea to top and sucker your tobacco, but this year it's more important than ever.

G. R. Mathews, associate agronomist at VPI, says that in some areas of Virginia there has been lots of rainfall, and the tobacco is too thin and too light in color. Growers are advised to top all their flue-cured tobacco and keep it clean-suckered.

Mathews points out that proper spacing and topping will not only increase the yield, but coupled with proper fertilization practices and varieties, will produce the milder, bright-colored tobacco now in demand. In a six-year experiment, plants that were topped and suckered produced an average of 1,582 pounds per acre valued at $859. Tobacco not topped and not suckered produced an average of 315 pounds and $178 less per acre than tobacco topped to 18 leaves, and suckered.

Except for the first primings, varieties that grow with a yellow cast, such as Virginia Gold and D. B. 101, should not be harvested until the leaf is thoroughly ripe.

RESEARCH GETS $25,530 FUND

The National Institutes of Health has awarded a sum of $25,530 to support basic agricultural research at V. P. I., under the direction of Dr. K. W. Bock in the department of biochemistry and nutrition. Approximately half of the funds will be used for graduate student assistantships. The research is an effort to learn the details of how bacteria and fungi decompose cellulose. Understanding of the process is intended to lead to ways of improving cattle and sheep nutrition, maintenance of soil fertility, sewage disposal, and cotton fabric preservation.

Local Factory Vacation Week Starts Friday

Vacation time has arrived for Appomattox's largest industrial payroll workers. Employees of the Appomattox Garment Co., Inc., begin their annual vacation with pay at the close of work on Friday, August 22. They will return to work Sept. 2.

A check of vacation plans reveals a three-way tie for things to do during the time-off. First, many will take trips, to the beaches or to the mountains or just plain sightseeing. Then many others will be occupied with getting children ready for school. Others have some canning and accumulated home chores to attend to before just enjoying a few days of rest.

Charlottesville, Va.- Summer session graduation exericses were held at the University of Virginia Aug. 16. A total of 200 men and women in the graduate and undergraduate schools received their degrees.

Fish Nets Losing Knots

Washington.- Knotless fishing nets made from synthetic fibers may soon be replacing the knotted kind.

Special features of the new nets are that they do not damage fish, that they are lighter and less bulky, stronger, and that they offer less resistance to water currents. Dirt and microbes are less likely to adhere to the nets.

With the netting process it is also possible to get more exact mesh size.

Fishermen in Japan, where the knotless nets were developed, are using them increasingly, the United States Fish and Willklife Service reports.

NEWS FOR VETERANS

Better service for veterans and physicians in Veterans Administration's hometown medical care program should be provided by conversion of paperwork for the program to an electric accounting machine system, VA said in announcing a change now under way.

Procedures for authorizing treatment, referring patients, and paying physicians will be simplified and speeded up greatly, the agency said.

The nationwide program provides for veterans with service-connected disabilities to receive care at VA expense from private physicians of their choice, in areas where care at VA outpatient clinics is not available.

Local Skywatchers Saw Red Sputnick Last Night

Local skywatchers were able to view, with the naked eye, the Russian rocket carrier of Sputnik III last night. It weased over at approximately 8:24 P. M., moving northwest to southeast. A group of ten watchers at the Appomattox Transco Station saw the rocket, according to Elmer Beamer. And the editor of this newspaper was in a group of four which saw the rocket very clearly in the eastern sky.

As the writer viewed the passing Sputnik carrier, it speared as a small star, but was moving swiftly. Our information is that it is traveling at a speed of 18,000 miles per hour, and at times reaches a distance of over 1,000 miles from the earth's surface. The rocket revolves every three seconds, thus giving a "blinking" appearance as different surfaces reflect the sun's light.

The local Transco Station got a report from the Transco Station at Reidsville, N. C., that the rocket was observed passing there at about the same time as here, disappearing at 8:43 P. M.

The rocket makes the complete circuit around the earth in 200 minutes.

There is a chance that it may be seen again tonight during two of its earth-circuits, at about 8:04 P. M. and 9:44 P. M. It will be about 670 miles above the earth's surface.

MARSHALL - CALDWELL REUNION AUGUST 31

Organ Students Give Recital

The organ students of Miss Kathryn Burkey will be presented in recital on Tuesday night, August 26, at 8 o'clock, at Memorial Methodist Church.

Those participating include: Carolyn Coleman, Jane Stanley, Mary Lou Jamerson, Jo Ella Ferguson, Virginia Carolyn Caldwell, Mrs. Clyde O'Brien, Penny Abbitt, and Peggy Godsey.

The public is invited.

YOUNG FARMERS HAVE OUTING

The Appomattox Young Farmers held a hamburger cook-out at the home of their advisor, W. Lewis Motley, Saturday night, August 16. Twenty-eight young farmers, wives, children and guests attended. The guests included W. C. Dudley, area supervisor of vocational agriculture, his wife, son and mother-in-law, Mrs. L. N. Ligon; Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Pack, and Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Ainsworth.

Thanks was returned by Young Farmer president, Bill Williamson, after which the group dined upon hot hamburgers and weiners right off the outdoor fireplace; baked beans, slaw, tomatoes, potato chips, cookies, cake, pie and cold drinks. After eating the young farmer group engaged in a croquet tournament.

Current officers of the Appomattox Young Farmer Club are: Bill Williamson, president; Richard Krantz, vice-president; and Elantha Drinkard, secretary and treasurer. Advisor is W. Lewis, Motley, vocational agriculture instructor at Appomattox High School.

The young farmer club is primarily an educational group which meets once a month under the direction of the vocational agriculture department, A. H. S., to study farming problems. All young farmers in the county are invited to attend its meetings and join in its activities.

Unemployment Drops

INGE AND MARTIN BACK FROM CHICAGO

Claiborne Inge and R. B. (Bob) Martin, of Appomattox Truck & Tractor, Inc., were in Chicago recently for an introductory showing of the new line of International Harvester tractors just off the production line.

In addition to six basic power sizes and many different models of Farmall and International tractors, Inge and Martin saw a number of new McCormick farm implements also introduced at the company showing, attended by most of the 8,500 Harvester dealers and sales personnel in the United States and Canada.

The new line of tractors is in keeping with the trend toward larger and more productive operations, both on the farm and in industry. There are six-cylinder engines on the big tractors; advanced styling; increased power in most models; a host of new operating features; and wider selection of gasoline, LPG, distillate, or diesel engines, and new power steering on more models than ever before in the history of tractor manufacturing.

New tractors are being shipped to district III sales offices and soon can be seen in dealer showrooms. In the meantime, Inge and Martin state that the Appomattox firm would join with other dealerships in presenting a big public Field Demonstration in Richmond, Virginia, September 11. Information about free, transportation to this demonstration may be obtained at the local firm's office.

Direct Hit At Sub-Station Cuts Off Lights

A direct hit by lightning during a severe electrical storm in this area Friday evening, blew out an 110,000-volt fuse in the Pamplin sub-station of the Virginia Electric and Power Co., resulting in electricity being off here for slightly over two hours. The outage extended from Dowdy's Corner westward. Vepco crews found the trouble and the necessary repairs were made with the utmost possible speed.

The storm was the heaviest in many years, in Lynchburg, dumping five inches of rainfall on the Hill City, and piling up considerable property damage.

4-H'ERS AID IN COMMUNITY HEALTH, SERVICE PROGRAMS

Summer doldrums don't seem to curtail a pair of State-wide 4-H club programs that have to do with health and community relations.

Four-H club officials at VPI say these year-round activities go hand-in-hand as club members try to improve their personal health habits and those of the community as well.

Among the many projects undertaken in Virginia are clean-up and rodent control campaigns, and health drives such as chest X-ray, polio, heart, cancer, and cerebral palsy. Individual clubs encourage regular dental and physical check-ups for members who are from 10 to 21 years old. Many receive expert first-aid training, and then give demonstrations to local groups.

Last year enrollment nationally in the health program reached a record high of 754,768.

Town of Appomattox taxpayers are getting their annual statements of taxes due this week. The first batch went into the mails yesterday and as taxpayers go to the postoffice today they will find how much they will have to round up to pay their share of the town budget.

Town manager C. J. Hunter says that there has been a lot of building and improvement around the town, but some of it will not be shown on the current tax ticket because it was begun after January 1, 1958. However, he does expect a slight increase, perhaps a few hundred dollars, in town income from taxes on property within the corporate limits.

To offset this, however, he was not too sure but what taxes on utilities, assessed by the State Corporation Commission, might be a bit down from last year.

So, it adds up, that town revenue will total only slightly ahead of last year.

The town tax rate is $1.00 per $100.00 of valuation, a rate which has been the same for over twenty years. The fact that it has not been increased, is due to the inescapable fact that "Appomattox is a growing town," and new property values have upped income in a normal upturn of income. Costs of town government have risen steadily, and each year the town has to do a lot of careful weighing of expenditures so as to avoid borrowing.

County treasurer, J. Garland Plunkett will get out the county tax bills in October. These have a December 5 deadline for payment to avoid penalty. A "must" to be paid by that important December 5 deadline is the 1958 capitation tax, in order to qualify as a voter in the town election in June next year.
